

ARBOR DAY

by Lorenzo Caricchio

*I push deep into moist yielding earth mother a worn out stump holding one son as I dig deep for the roots that have grown up into the sun light and heat that now makes me sweat boiling over on to the dirt my body's fluid absorbed
by the
tree
that may be*